FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DAVID WINTER APPOINTED VICE PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Seattle, WA (September, 2010). David Winter, PE, LEED AP, has been appointed as Hart Crowser's Vice President of Business Development. This new position takes advantage of Winter's 29 years of experience in the engineering community and his reputation for creativity and client service on high-profile regional, national, and international projects. He will be responsible for Hart Crowser's marketing and business development, market expansion, emerging markets evaluation and development, and client service company-wide.

Winter is a senior principal who has worked 20 years with Hart Crowser. He holds a BS and MS in civil engineering, is a graduate of the ACEC Senior Executives Institute, is a member of Missouri S&T Academy of Civil Engineers, and is a Fellow in SAME. Through his career he has been responsible for both public and private sector clients, and has developed market strategies that penetrated new geographic regions and established new service lines. As a LEED Accredited Professional, he has special expertise in low impact design and development and alternative energy solutions.

Hart Crowser is an 80-person, employee-owned environmental and engineering consulting firm headquartered in Seattle, with offices in Edmonds, Washington, and Portland, Oregon. The firm specializes in environmental and geotechnical engineering, natural resources, and environmental remediation technologies. Corporate offices are located at 1700 Westlake
